1. Intensive efforts are being made to improve the Polish transportation system. Plans are being developed under Soviet control for the coordination of Polish and East German transport. Increasing numbers of Polish-built freight cars are being shipped to East Germany while the production of passenger cars and passenger train service is constantly being reduced.
2. Heavy armament and equipment, including artillery, artillery tractors and trucks, are being shipped from the Soviet Union to West Poland and East Germany. Stockpiles are being built up in the largely deserted cities of West Poland, in the area ceded by Germany after World War II.
